

Let  $f : \mathbb{R} \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$  be a continuously differentiable function that satisfies  $f'(t) > f(f(t))$  for all  $t \in \mathbb{R}$ . Prove that  $f(f(f(t))) \leq 0$  for all  $t \geq 0$ .