Given a group G, denote by $G(m)$ the subgroup generated by the mth powers of elements of G. If $G(m)$ and $G(n)$ are commutative, prove that $G(\gcd(m,n))$ is also commutative.

($\gcd(m,n)$ denotes the greatest common divisor of m and n.)