For which positive integers n does there exist an $n \times n$ matrix A whose entries are all in $\{0, 1\}$, such that A^2 is the matrix of all ones?